

John Mongelli, PE

Associate, Senior Mechanical Engineer

About

Having joined Kohler Ronan's Danbury office in 2012, John has proven to be a leader in the mechanical department. He has significant experience across a variety of project and building types including corporate offices, academic institutions, and cultural establishments.

As Mechanical Engineer, John's responsibilities include performing heating and cooling load calculations, properly sizing and specifying mechanical equipment, and designing heating and cooling plants as well as air and hydronic distribution systems to serve the building. In addition to designing mechanical systems, John frequently serves as Project Manager on several projects and assumes the associated additional responsibilities of that role.
